

TRUE BLUES ARE CHAMPIONS.

A GREAT GAME OF ASSOCIATION FOOT-BALL AT EAST NEWARK.

THE PATERSON MEN DEFEAT THE FALL RIVER TEAM BY SUPERB PLAYING-PIVE THOUSAND

PEOPLE PRESENT-THE SCORE 7 TO 2. A great game of Association football was played yesterday afternoon in Cosmopolitan Park, East Newark, between the True Blues, of Paterson, and the Olympics, of Fall River, for the American championship in the cup tie series. The attendance was enormus, and at an early hour in the day the quiet streets of the small borough town were thronged with visitors, many of whom were from New-England and from the New-Jersey city of Paterson. Both teams had plenty of shouting enthusiasts and when the game began, at 3:30 o'clock, the colors of the contestants were about evenly divided. The ball was put in play at 3:40 o'clock. It as kicked off by Spencer, and for nearly a minute the sphere was in the air moving rapidly toward the Olympics' goal. Big Lagerdes, of the Fall River team secured the ball nearly in front of his goal and by strong and well-judged play he advanced it into the True Blues' territory, where Alexander met it with a mighty kick that returned it to the place made vacant by the aggressive work of Lageross and the Olympic forwards. Spencer, the True Blue centre, was there to receive it, however, and by a clean kick he scored the first goal; time, two minutes.

For about ten minutes from this time, the ball was carried from one end of the field to the other, by some of the sharpest and most scientific play ever seen in the Cosmopolitan grounds. Experienced football men noticed that the True Blues were in somewhat better condition and that their passing and "dribbling" was quicker and more snappy than that of the New-England men. Ten minutes after play began, Spencer sccured the second goal for his team by a fine exhibition of wing-passing by Turner, Grewcock and Oldfield, the latter centring the ball to Spencer directly in front of goal in the most accurate and scientific manner. For twenty minutes after this the ball was worked continually in front of the Olympics' goal, giving James Irving, Olympic's goal-keeper, aparently more work than was agree-

The Fall River men scored their first goal just half an hour after play began, it being kicked by Sunderland on a mass play in front of goal. One Sunderland on a mass play in front of goal. One minute later Turner, of the True Blues, returned the compliment, by kicking the third goal for his side, taking the ball from a long drive off Alexander, who was playing a star game. Five minutes before the half ended Lageross, the big back, stopped a well-planned forward rush by kicking the ball out of bounds, and over three houses into the side street. One minute from time Lauder kicked a clean goal for his side on a play off the left wing, making the score 4 to 1 in favor of the True Blues as the whistle sounded for the end of thehalf.

The second, half began at 4:45, and, as the players had received a good rubdown in the intermission, they came on the field in even better conlition than when the game began. The Olympics had evidently received ginger from their manager during the breathing spell, for on the game starting they took the aggressive, and in ten seconds had made a trial which just missed by striking the overhead beam. The few seconds following saw a fine scrimmage directly in front of the True Blues' goal, which continued until the referee sounded his whistle, giving a foul to the True Blues, which resulted, five es later, in the Olympias securing a goal, which did not count, on account of offside play.

and down the field the ball passed, the backs of both teams showing up particularly strong, and effectually blocking the sphere as it came into their territory. About fifteen minutes after the half be gan Spencer had an excellent chance or goal, and half of the crowd shouted out, advising him how to play. He made a desperate effort, but made a fail-piny. He made a desperate effort, but made a failure, probably because of the advice. Two minutes after his failure, Oldheld kicked the fifth goal for the True Blues on a cross-wing piay that drew shouts of applause from the crowd. Three micates later, by using the same combination, he secured the sixth goal in precisely the same manner, and the big goal-keeper was angry.

When the ball was put in play, immediately after it went out on Olympic's left and on the throw in to True Blues, McKay, goalkeeper, caught the ball and was about to throw it to the field, when Oldheld, in the excitement of the moment, tackied him, which is against the rules. McKay was angry, and the 5,000 spectators saw a sprinting match haifway across the field. Oldfield easily outran McKay, who was stopped on the centre line by his captain.

This incident was soon forgotten in the excite-

Kay, who was stopped on the centre line by his captain.

This incident was soon forgotten in the excitement that followed. The ball was passed, butted, dr. obled and kicked until the players began to wear out in the intense heat. The Olympics were playing better than in the first half, but could not break through the superb backs and forwards of their opponents. A few minutes before the half ended Gunderland secured an opportunity for goal, of which he availed himself, making the second goal for his side. Grewook, a few minutes later, again returned the compliment, and made the seventh goal for the True Blues 7 and Olympics 2.

The line-up was as follows:

CAST OFF BY HER CHILDREN.

A BLIND WOMAN, EIGHTY YEARS OLD, FOUND HOMELESS IN THE STREET.

A Newark policeman saw an aged woman at noon yesterday tottering along Market-st., near Broad-st., and feeling her way. She was totally blind. He stopped the woman and questioned her. She said her name was Mrs. Margaret Foersch, that she was eighty years old, and that she had been cast away by her two sons, who she said fived in Lesile Piace, Irvington. The officer took the woman to Police Headquarters. To Police Captain Daiy, Mrs. Foersch said that she formerly lived in Newark, and was then in comfortable circumstances, and her two sons and a daughter married well. As long as she was able to she supported herself, but of late she had been a pensioner on her children, living with her daughter in New-York until Friday, when she was placed on a trolley-car running from the Jersey City ferty to Newark, and sent to her sons, George and Frank Foersch, in Irvington. It was evening when she reached her destination, and she was met at the door by her son Frank, who, she says, was not pleased to see her. She was permitted to remain over night, but yesterday morning, she says, her sons said to her: "We don't want you here; go back to where you came from."

The Overseer of the Poor was informed, and it was decided to place the old woman in the almshouse. Captain Daly said he would see that her sons cared for her properly.

DR. MABIE ON MODERN NOVELS.

e 193d quarterly session of the Newark Teachof "The Outlook," spoke on "Literature as a Source of Personal Power." A great book, he said, is something more than the personal skill or genius of its author. Books that live are those which contain the experience of men's lives; such books are needed, and new life is found in them.

"Freshness of spirit is one great power to be drawn from literature," said the speaker. "It is drawn from liter2':"-" said the speaker. "It is the quality of youth, and one great characteristic of great men and women is their eternal youthfulness. If I had my way, I would compel everybody to read Homer through at least once a year.
Homer is full of health and vitality; there is not a morbid word in his books—none of that modern disease of introspection, which seems to permeate all modern literature, until you and I have come to think that a broken heart, a diseased mind, a bottle of ink and a ream of paper are all that are necessary to write a modern novel."

A DRY SUNDAY EDICT HAS GONE FORTH.

ONLY REGULAR PATRONS CAN GET EEER IN JERSEY CITY TO-DAY.

The Jersey City saloons, if open to-day will, it is sunced on excellent authority, do a quiet, select trade. Promiscuous callers will find few doors open. Sentinels will be stationed at the saloons, and only regular patrons and loyal friends will be admitted. The order has been issued that the police take an active part in enforcing the law, and the liquor dealers have been advised to suspend traffic at mid-night and not resume until 12 o'clock to-night. Chief of Police Murphy had a long conference yes-terday with the police captains. They refuse to terday with the police captains. divulge what plan has been adopted relative to enforcing the Sunday law. All that could be gleaned from the chief was: "Walt until Monday." It is Thursday evening. A short musicale was followed inferred from this that a close vigil will be maintained, evidence will be obtained against offenders and complaints will be made before the Police Justices to-morrow. It is also rumored that in cases of flagrant violations of the law summary arrests will be made. Prosecutor of the Pleas Winfield will again send out his secret agents. He had four will again seem out in secret agents. In has not out securing evidence last Sunday, and they reported forty-two violations of the law. Their evidence was submitted to the Grand Jury, and it is said indictments will be found in every case. Many saloonkeepers will probably close rather than run the risk of indictment, and the prospect is that it will be a comparatively dry Sunday in Jersey City.

HE CUT HIS THROAT WHILE SHAVING.

New-Brunswick, April 18 (Special).-Michael Fox, a policeman of New-Brunswick, cut his throat while shaving at his home in Suydam-st., at 3 o'clock this afternoon. He had lathered his face and had pol atternoon. He had lathered his face and had poised the razor to begin shaving. His hand trembled violently, but in an instant either through nervous-ness or direct impulse, the razor edge slipped over his neck cutting a deep gash. Fox fell to the floor, bleeding. Drs. Donahue and Slack attended Fox and he rallied late this afternoon. He denied at-tempting suicide and assigned nervousness as the cause.

HE WAS FOUND INHALING GAS.

A middle-aged man registered as Harry Wright yesterday at Steup's Hotel in Jersey City. He was shown to room No. 27. A chambermald who entered the room by a pass key a few moments later with towels and water, was shocked to find that the guests had fastened a piece of tubing to the gas jet and inserted the other end of the tubing in his mouth. He was lying on the bed inhaling the gas, and was then unconscious. The maid gave the alarm and Wright was removed to the City Hospital. He partly revived and said he was out of work and despondent. He will probably recover.
